- Present ATG products and services to individual growers and group audiences.
- Organize and attend farm visits, grower meetings, trade shows, and group presentations.
- Identify opportunities to share ASLE research findings and on-farm data with customers.
- Proactively pursue new business opportunities to strengthen and grow ATG's presence within the assigned territory.
- Perform additional duties as required.

Qualifications

- Degree in Agriculture, along with experience in crop inputs.
- Minimum of three years of hands-on experience in agronomy, crop inputs, soil sampling, or crop advisory services.
- Strong knowledge of modern farming practices and industry regulations.
- Experience with GIS, farm data platforms, and agricultural technology is considered an asset.
- Ability to work independently with strong time management, planning, and multitasking skills.
- Excellent communication and organizational abilities.
- Certified Crop Advisor (CCA) designation is an asset.
- Strong interpersonal and team-building skills with a positive, professional attitude.
- Valid Class 5 driver's license with a clean driving record.
